

Knob Creek Rye

50%

Unlike the Knob Creek bourbons (which are 9 years old), there's no age statement with this new rye, which tastes relatively younger.

It's bracing, vibrant, and spicy.

(The rye contribution is unmistakable.) Cinnamon spice and crisp mint dominate, with charcoal, botanicals, ginger, nutmeg, honeyed fruit, vanilla, and caramel. Warming spice finish.

Its dynamic personality should shine in cocktails, but from a sipping, drinking neat perspective, I wish it was a little older like its siblings.

—Vol. 21, #2

