Whisky
×
Bowmore 46 year old (distilled 1964)
42.9% There have been some legendary Bowmores from the mid-60s and this is every bit their equal. All of them share a remarkable aroma of tropical fruit, which here moves into hallucinatory intensity: guava, mango, peach, pineapple, grapefruit. There's a very light touch of peat smoke, more a memory of Islay than the reality. Concentrated: even at low strength the palate is silky, heady, and haunting, and lasts forever in the dry glass. A legend is born.
(Eight bottles only for the U.S.) Editor's Choice.
Vol. 21, #3	