57.9%

After initial maturation in American white oak, this 1991 expression was filled into a 15 year old Lepanto brandy cask from Gonzales Byass in May 2003, ultimately being re-racked into a fresh 'distillery run' bourbon barrel in August 2009. Caramel and white chocolate on the nose, malt, fudge, cinnamon, and nutmeg, then burnt treacle and hot brandy.

Malt, sweet spice, almonds, bananas, and fudge on the palate.

Spicy fruits in the lengthy Armagnac-like finish. Cask number 1; 233 bottles.
