

Lagavulin 21 year old 2012 Special Release

52%

Lagavulin from a first-fill sherry butt? There's unusual. This is huge, fluxing, and complex, mixing saddles and dark chocolate, pu-erh tea and smothered kiln, geranium and velvet, gamey venison and treacle. The smoke is integrated, the fires ember-like, the oak there but not oppressively so. Massive, dense, layered, and complex, this needs time to open. In short, a distillation of Islay and up alongside last year's Jazz Festival bottling.

—Vol. 21, #4

