

Italian Single Malt Red
40%

It might be Italian single malt, but it isn't whisky. It's getting there, though, and this is very sippable in its own right. This is from the far North of Italy, where the influence is heavily Austrian. It's very well made indeed, is bursting with vibrant fruit, and is good enough now to be enjoyed as an aperitif. It will appeal to Italian palates, which are fond of very young spirits. €35

—Vol. 22, #3

