

Italian Single Malt White

40%

A single malt it may be, because it's the product of one distillery, but a single grain it's not. In fact, there are three malted grains in this, and that makes for a punchy, vibrant, fruity, and menthol-tinged new make spirit, but with a sweet cereal note and some distinctive spiciness from the rye. Different and interesting up to a point; very well made, but still new make spirit at the end of the day. €30

—Vol. 22, #3

