

Kilchoman 2007

46%

The first thing I wrote was, "classic Kilchoman." Then I paused...because it's true. Though still young, here's a distillery that has established its own character.

In this expression you get full integration between oak and distillery, a sparkling mix of seashell and the freshness of seaweed, touched with churned butter, driftwood, and fresh-kilned peat. On the tongue, there's samphire, peat, sweet barley, and an herbal kick. This is Kilchoman coming of age, assured and confident.

—Vol. 22, #4

