

Single Malts of Scotland (distilled at Longmorn) 1992

49.7%

Longmorn always has this fruitcake thing going on and this is no exception. A sherry hoggie helped provide sultana, cake mix, grilled almond, rhubarb puree, and a little cigar box. The palate is very fruity, with light Darjeeling-like tannins, then red fruits. It becomes nuttier as it moves and needs water to add ripeness to the stone fruit base. Highly recommended and extremely well priced. £80

—Vol. 23, #3

