

Glenfarclas Family
Casks 1987 (Cask
#3829)
48%

This is the bomb. Savory and lightly meaty, but sweetened by plum sauce; there's even some strawberry around the fringes. You could see how with another 30 years this would end up like the '54. Elegant yet powerful, there's sandalwood incense, marmalade, even a little dried mango. The distillery's density is balanced by this fruit. Lush with supple tannins and at its best neat. From a refill butt, this is an exemplary sherried malt. £230

—Vol. 23, #3

