

Bowmore Devil's Cask
Batch 2

56.3%

Last year's was a top-notch, defiantly sherried example of Bowmore. This year's batch thrusts equally boldly, but starts in a more Japanese-accented fashion: think soy, miso paste, and salmon teriyaki. Light leather, with hickory campfire smoke coming through strongly. The big, oily, tarry palate is like a spent barbecue with a hint of skidding car tires on Bowmore High Street. So, still a belter, but why so limited? Beam Suntory, please sort it out! (6,000 bottles) £60

—Vol. 23, #4

