

Elijah Craig 23 year old
(Barrel No. 26)

45%

Yes, 23 years is a long time to age bourbon. And yes, there's plenty of oak influence. But there's an underlying sweetness that balances the oak spice (with this particular cask; others may vary).

Chewy in texture, with toffee, dates, fig cake (with nuts), barrel char, tobacco, leather, and a dusting of cocoa.

—Vol. 23, #4

