

Caol Ila Unpeated 1997
17 year old (Diageo
Special Release 2015)

55.9%

Aged in first-fill American oak, this shows a real brightness, crisp fruit, and some smoke—it's not really unpeated—and wet grass, before moving into pear and tarragon.

The palate is intense, with a hay note, then an almost fino sherry-like note before sashimi emerges.

Reduced, there's more of a soft flow, though there's still a touch of green olive minerality. A steal at this price. Snap it up.
