

Deanston

30 year old, 46.7%

Aged in bourbon and sherry casks, and then finished off in oloroso sherry casks for two years. The sherry provides a good measure of lush fruit, brown sugar, and a slick texture on the palate. The sherry is clean and uncluttered, if somewhat overshadowing the traditional Deanston honeyed malt foundation. I'm also picking up some burnt marmalade, lemongrass, and ginger. Soft, sweet, fruity, finish.
