

Texas Crown Club

40%

Porridge, butterscotch, and a little dust on the nose. Rosewater and some spice on the palate, but the floral notes are out of balance. Hot peppers, slightly pulling, and a bit mealy on the tongue, then a pleasing earthiness. The label says "ultra premium," the taste says "not so much." The best feature is the pepper, which will bolster ginger ale and cut through cola because this is not really for sipping.

—Vol. 25, #1

