

Gordon & MacPhail
Single Cask #5054
(distilled at Glen Grant)
1990 Vintage
56.0% ABV

Here's a whisky not seen very often in the U.S. When it is seen, it's from one of the independent bottlers. I have always felt that younger Glen Grant whiskies make a nice introduction to the single malt category-especially for a blend drinker trading up. The whisky is usually light to medium in body and uncomplicated-with no harsh edges to be particularly offensive. And so it is with this whisky. A soft, cereal grain maltiness marries nicely with floral, delicately fruity notes throughout. Gentle, dry but malty finish, with suggestions of shortbread cookies and vanilla. A nice representation of a younger Glen Grant. The flavors are clean and tight.

—Vol. 13, #2

