

Bunnahabhain Moine
PX 12 year old

52.7%

Bunnahabhain's peaty expression is steadily coming together. It's been one of those drams that seems to need more time than many, but that's true of Bunna' in general, come to think of it. In fact, the peatiness is quite mild on the nose, adding some scent to the sandalwood elements and obvious raisined sweetness.

There's a slightly cheesy note in the background and a touch of sulphur on the palate. It's not quite wholly integrated, but progressing well. (Fèis Ile 2016, 833 bottles) £95

—Vol. 25, #3

