

Glenrothes

1991 Vintage, 43%

The newest expression from the 1990s. Heavier, richer, and more ripe than the 1987 Vintage reviewed above. It is very creamy and mouth-coating, with layers of sweetness (vanilla, caramel, light toffee, white chocolate), fruit (sultana, plum), along with a good underpinning of oak spice. A very nice effort for a whisky this young.
