

Bain's Cape Mountain Single Grain Whisky

46%

South Africa may be home to an increasingly impressive wine industry — and a noted brandy producer — but the country is also home to two whisky distilleries.

Drayman's in Pretoria is run by brewer Moritz Kallmeyer, while the James Sedgwick distillery in Wellington is home to Three Ships and Bain's Cape Mountain Grain.

Bain's was created by distiller Andy Watts as a way to attract the new, female drinker. Sweet and succulent, this is like an alcohol ice cream sundae — fudge chunks, toffee, and butterscotch syrup, not to mention the ice cream. You pile on the pounds just smelling it. A lush beauty.

—Vol. 19, #4

